

The Union Is Dissolved!, 1860

Introduction

The election of Abraham Lincoln as the sixteenth President of the United States in November 1860 led to the eventual secession of eleven slave-holding states and the formation of the Confederacy. Convinced that the federal government would initiate judicial and legal action against slavery, South Carolina became the first state to secede. Printed in Charleston, South Carolina, on December 20, 1860, this broadside announces South Carolina's repeal of the Constitution of the United States and the state's secession from the Union. "The Union Is Dissolved!" it declares. The Constitution of the new Confederacy would sanction the unrestricted right to hold slaves.

Questions for Discussion

Read the document introduction, examine the transcript, and apply your knowledge of American history in order to answer the questions that follow.

1. Some historians refer to this broadside, rather than the bombardment of Fort Sumter, as the "first shot" of the Civil War. Explain what they mean.
2. Why is it not surprising that secession was first declared in South Carolina?
3. On March 4, 1861, Abraham Lincoln in his first Inaugural twice stated "we cannot separate." How realistic was the new president?
4. Why did the creator of this document feel it unnecessary to list any of the reasons for secession?
